

DESIGNING for PEOPLE

The University of British Columbia

Karon MacLean (Director)

Professor of Computer Science

University of British Columbia sensory perception and interaction (SPIN Lab)

interdisciplinary research cluster

dfp.ubc.ca

24 core faculty

11 departments

4 faculties

collaborative research

grad training program

seminar series

knowledge mobilization

The University of British Columbia

About DFP People News & Events Grad Training Research & Translation Initiatives Partners

DFP Design Showcase 2018

The first DFP Design Showcase occurred on Wednesday June 20th, 2018. Highlights included the design projects from the DFP project course 554K (Students and Industry partners).

Read more

Who Are We?

UBC's Designing for People (DFP) research

What Do We Do?

At UBC and beyond, we're fostering an

For Students ▶

DESIGNING for PEOPLE

The University of British Columbia

DFP CREATE graduate training program for Masters & PhDs

- Research-intensive graduate training by DFP faculty from Computer Science, Engineering, iSchool, Architecture, Nursing, Psychology, Medicine, Education ...
 - 20 grad students annually
 - Advanced, applied cross-disciplinary training in DFP research disciplines
 - Year 1: DFP CORE: Fundamentals (term 1); DFP Project w/ external partner (term 2)
Plus professional skills modules
- proceed to DFP-focused graduate thesis or project research in home department

Highly interdisciplinary learning: extreme silo-busting

dfp.ubc.ca/grad-training:
apply this Fall for Sept 2021